

Bengal Tigers

By Chloe

The Bengal Tigers are one of the four big cats. In the cat family there are....Lions,Cheetah's,Leopards and of course Tigers!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Unfortunately there are only two hundred Bengal tigers left in the world.

Bengal tigers are orange with black stripes all over their body and have white on their tummy. They can have either blue or green eyes and a have pretty pink nose.

Bengal Tigers are carnivores which means they eat meat. They eat a variety of meat such as chicken, horse, beef, lambs and rats Meat.

They are native to india.They live in the forest in india. Sometimes they even live in the villages.They are very Protective. They are Protective because they will protect you from danger.(explain why they are protective Chloe - maybe give an example of their protectiveness)

Some people think that Bengal tigers are dangerous. But if you don't invade their personal space they won't attack you.

So now you know a bit about tigers. Now you can tell your friends about bengal tigers.

I think you could add a lot more information - what do they hunt, what are their predators, why are they endangered?